Dedication

Five years ago, Dr. Laurie Giles came to Eastern Nazarene College and redefined what it meant to connect with your students. She only ever saw the greatest potential of her students and pushed them to go above and beyond that potential. In addition to that, she would welcome anyone and everyone into her office as if they were apart of her family. Currently, Dr. Giles is the head of the Center for Justice and Responsibility and in the Spring semester of 2015, she inspired an entire class to go above and beyond by starting a program that would help provide food to a local community elementary school called the Buddy Bags program. Dr. Giles holds a special place in the campus's heart. So this year's Nautilus Dedication goes to Dr. Laurie Giles.

Dr. Laurie Giles

A letter from our President...

Dear Seniors,

It's hard to believe that it's been nearly four years since you first arrived at Eastern Nazarene College, brimming with hope, excitement – and probably a little uncertainty – about what lay ahead. Now, as you prepare to complete your studies, I encourage you to pause and reflect for a moment on all that you have accomplished in just a few short years.

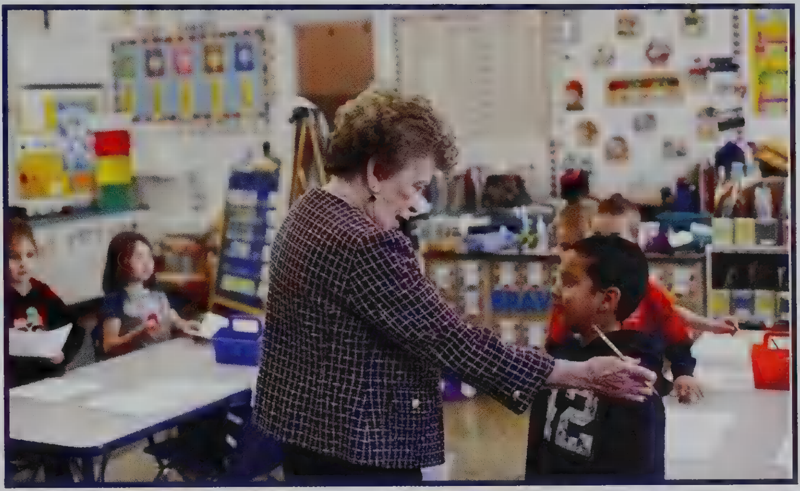
I hope your experiences here at ENC have been everything you prayed they would be and more. I hope you availed yourself of the opportunity to work closely with our dedicated faculty members. In years to come, you may look back on your time here at ENC and realize just how much a certain professor invested in your personal, academic and spiritual growth.
I hope you participated in some of the many extracurricular activities that complement ENC's academic programs. From the athletic fields to the stage of Cove Fine Arts Center, our campus was made decidedly richer through the sharing of your talents with us.

Perhaps you participated in a scientific research project, or served on one of our traveling summer ministry teams. Maybe you traveled to another country as part of a FUSION mission trip, or volunteered in an inner-city classroom. In whatever way you chose to become involved here at ENC, please know that your gifts and service have left an indelible mark on our campus community. "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path," Psalm 119 tells us. As you prepare to leave ENC and go forth to make your mark on the wider world, I pray you will find that your time here at Eastern Nazarene College has prepared you well for the journey ahead, wherever your walk with the Lord takes you.

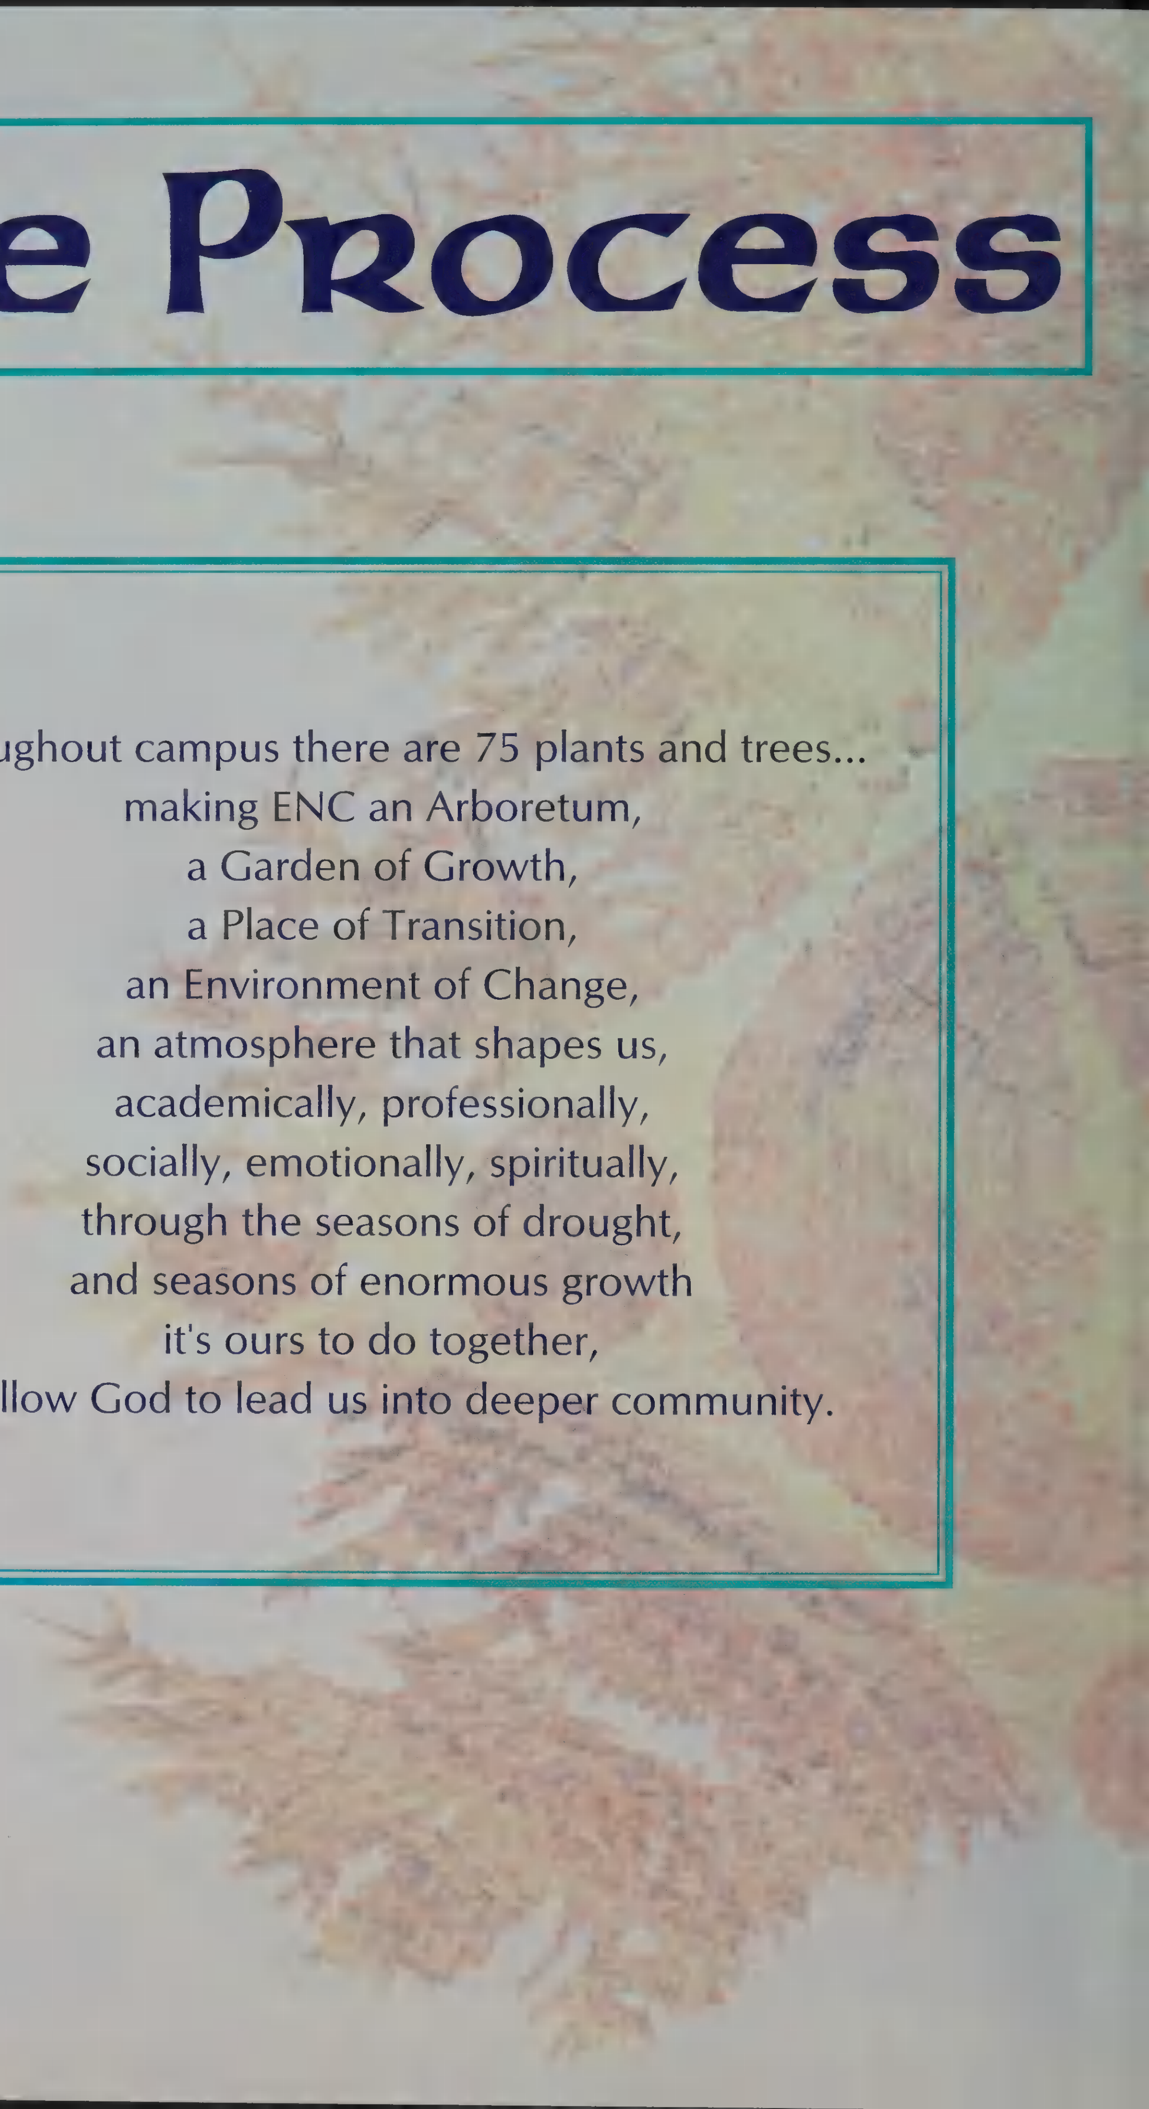
Blessings,
President McGee

In Loving Memory of Joyce Young

Joyce graduated from ENC in 1953 and began a 62-year teaching career. As a very active part of the ENC community, Joyce organized many craft sales on the campus to fund scholarships. She enjoyed attending ENC sporting events and encouraged and supported many students over the years. The Joyce E. Young Scholarship has been established in Joyce's memory at ENC.



The Process



Throughout campus there are 75 plants and trees...
making ENC an Arboretum,
a Garden of Growth,
a Place of Transition,
an Environment of Change,
an atmosphere that shapes us,
academically, professionally,
socially, emotionally, spiritually,
through the seasons of drought,
and seasons of enormous growth
it's ours to do together, to allow God to lead us into deeper community.

"And let us consider how we may spur one another on toward love and good deeds, not giving up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but encouraging one another and all the more as you see the Day approaching"

- Hebrews 10:24-25

2015 Graduating Class Council

President Sarah Andrus

Letter from the council president

Dear Sr. Class,

Our freshman year we learned about S.O.U.P. We learned to SUPPORT each other – through the good times, the bad times, and our spiritual ups and downs. We learned about OPENNESS – to be honest and sincere with one another. We learned about UNITY – how to become a community that lives together as one. Lastly, we learned about PRESENCE – how to just be.

Our sophomore year we were led by Ephesians 4:2-6 which says, "Be completely humble and gentle; be patient, bearing with one another in love. Make every effort to keep the unity of the Spirit through the bond of peace. There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called to one hope when you were called; one Lord, one faith, one baptism; one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all." We were taught be become ONE – as a community and with our Father.

Junior year, we INFUSED ourselves through 1 Thessalonians 3:11-13 – "May God our Father himself and our Master Jesus clear the road to you! And may the Master pour on the love so it fills your lives and splashes over on everyone around you, just as it does from us to you. May you be infused with strength and purity, filled with confidence in the presence of God our Father when our Master Jesus arrives with all his followers." We were taught to fill and uplift one another.

And now we are seniors. It's crazy to think we have made it to this point. This year we were challenged with Hebrews 10:24-25, "And let us consider how we may spur one another on toward love and good deeds, not giving up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but encouraging one another—and all the more as you see the Day approaching." As we know, this is all part of our PROCESS.

My prayer for you is that we can continue to live in such a way that we always S.O.U.P, we embrace the body of ONE that we have become, that we can INFUSE everyone we meet with the love of Christ, and that we may push each other toward love and the PROCESS. The journey has really only just begun, so as you enter into His greater plan have comfort in the fact that we are all here with you, and He is too.

As Corey would say, go with the peace and the love of Christ.

We did it.

Your 2015 Class President,
Sarah Andrus

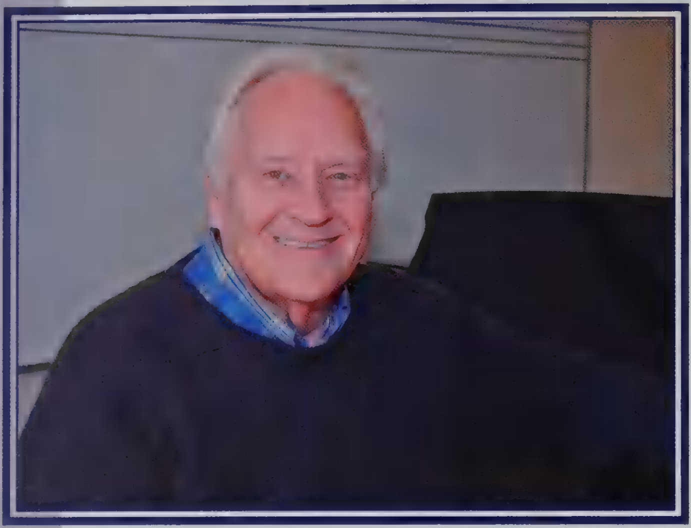
Retirees



Professor Lambert Brandes

He has served as a professor of Music Theory, Acoustics of Music, Organ and Music Composition for 51 years. Brandes also served as chair of the Music Department for nine years.

"I feel like God Himself has blessed me. I'm very thankful for everything… God, my wife, everyone who has been administrating, my fellow faculty, and students, especially," Brandes said.

In retirement, Brandes plans to continue serving as organist at Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

"The game of life [is] learning how to get passed ourselves…" Brandes said. "As I've said in class more than once, life is a course in how to love."

Carolyn Morse

She has served as the Athletic Secretary, Athletic Administrative Specialist, and Office Manager for 25 years. She has served a round of over 80 head coaches and hundreds of student athletes from her desk in the Lahue gym.

"The idea of retirement has not quite sunk in yet but [I'm] looking forward to having free time to spend with my [family] and time for myself," Morse said.

While Morse is excited for personal time, she also called her transition to retirement "bittersweet."

"I love the everyday challenges, the Christian environment and all the wonderful students… I pray that God will continue to watch over ENC and all those in the community that serve Him."

You will be greatly missed

Dr. Nancy Detwiler

She served as the chair of the Exercise and Sport Sciences Department and the Athletic Director. She boasts a career that began in the 60's. Dr. Detwiler has coached since the mid-1950's, including volleyball, basketball, and tennis.

She has remained an advocate for the equality of women in sports and has worked to change the female athletic direction.

"It has been my privilege to spend my career at a place as special as [ENC]. The essence of what I have accomplished is because of the people with whom I work and serve.

With her induction into the ENC Hall of Fame, Dr. Nancy Detwiler will be remembered as a trailblazer for women's sports, and for the innumerable advances and accomplishments she has achieved during her time at ENC.

Ralph Toye

He has been maintaining ENC's grounds full time since 2002. His duties include working on lawns, shrubs, trees, flowers, and foliage. He plans to hand his work over to Sam Mohnkern. One of his favorite parts of working at ENC was spending time with student workers.

Toye plans to spend the summer working on a few new projects around campus before officially leaving in March. "There are a lot of trees that have been lost this winter, and I want to plant a few new ones." Toye said.

After retirement, Toye is hoping to work part-time at ENC, spending summers renovating the grounds. He also hopes to work on his personal home and garden.

POLITICS AND CHRISTIANITY

Rev. Gabriel Salguero speaks on justice, immigration policy

By Amy Wetzel

Social activist Reverend Gabriel Salguero spoke to the ENC community about love, justice, and America's immigration policy on unaccompanied alien children on Oct. 10.

In chapel service and later at an afternoon lecture, Salguero explained the current UAC, or unaccompanied alien children, situation and how the American government has reacted by sending many immigrants back to their native countries.

He ultimately argued that we as Christians must advocate for love and justice to protect our brothers and sisters in Christ, who are trying to escape awful conditions in their homelands.

Salguero is a Nazarene pastor for Lamb's Church in New York City and was the May 2014 commencement speaker at ENC. As an advocate for immigration reform, he has met President Obama and many other government leaders concerning the US immigration policy.

"When you have a seat at the table, it's not all about you," Salguero said, echoing mottoes of other social activists like Nobel Peace Prize Winner, Malala Yousafzai.

Salguero is also the president of the National Latino Evangelical Coalition.

NaLEC is a coalition of Hispanic evangelical churches from across the country who essentially want to "advance the common good," as Salguero said in his lecture on Friday afternoon. The coalition focuses on "PIE": poverty, immigration, and education.

This involvement has led Salguero to address a current immigration issue that America faces. From December 2013 to now, over 50,000 immigrant children mainly from Honduras, El Salvador, and Guatemala have crossed the US border. These children are promptly being sent home. "What are they going home to?" Salguero asked.

GOING GREEN

ENC converting from oil to natural gas

By Jessica Johnston

During the month of October, ENC's facilities team will be busy transforming the central heat system from oil to natural gas. The project is currently underway in the Mann Student Center and is expected to be finished within the next few weeks.

On top of the financial savings that this change will bring, the positive environmental impact is also a big factor in deciding to switch over. Burning natural gas produces less nitrogen oxide and carbon dioxide than oil does, requires very little water, and produces less solid waste than oil.

Facilities is planning on recouping the cost of the project within two years, allowing them to determine the necessary energy efficiency upgrades needed throughout campus.

During these renovations, facilities has removed two boilers dating back to 1955 and has added a brand new gas boiler. Within the next few weeks, National Grid will be bringing about 3800 feet of gas line to the campus to finish the conversion. Construction to install the gas line will stretch from ENC's campus, up Wendell Street, and down to Billings Street.

Since the majority of the buildings run off of the main steam plant, "the switch over from oil to natural gas will be a pretty quick process," Director of Facilities Mike Johnston said. Cove and Young are the only exceptions from the main steam plant.

Facilities plans on working with National Grid on energy efficiency in each building, including the dorms.

The facilities team is currently running an oil boiler until the new gas boiler is fine tuned. Once this happens, the switch over to natural gas can immediately

Love always: Dad, Mom, and Sarah

Congratulations to our little girl! We are so proud of the wonderful young woman you have grown up to be. We love you very much!
Mom and Dad

Congrats, Amy!

Some people might have talents, abilities, beautiful appearance, influence and material possessions, but they are not more special than you are. You are God's chosen one. You have greatness within you that has rise above and beyond our expectation. You have the spirit of God in you. Today is your day. Start making a difference in this world. We are so proud to have you in our lives

Love,

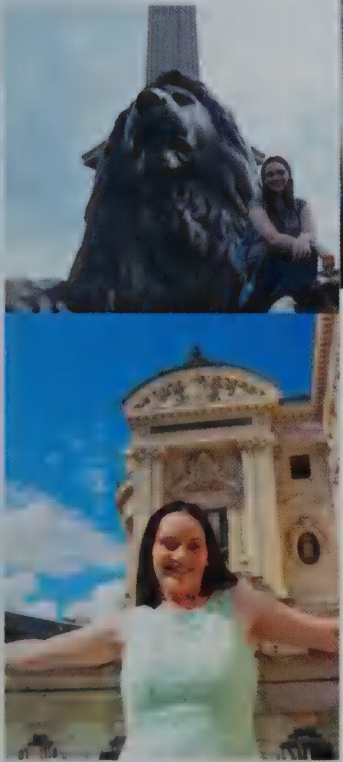
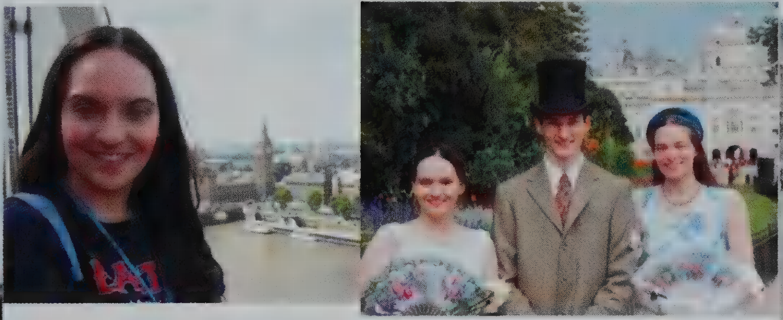
Congratulations!
Elizabeth Blanchette
and the class of 2015!





Congratulations Elizabeth!
We are so proud of you and all your achievements.
From all your friends, family, and loved ones; we wish you all the best for your future.
May your graduation stand as a wonderful reminder of how far you have come, of your hard work, and of God's everlasting grace.
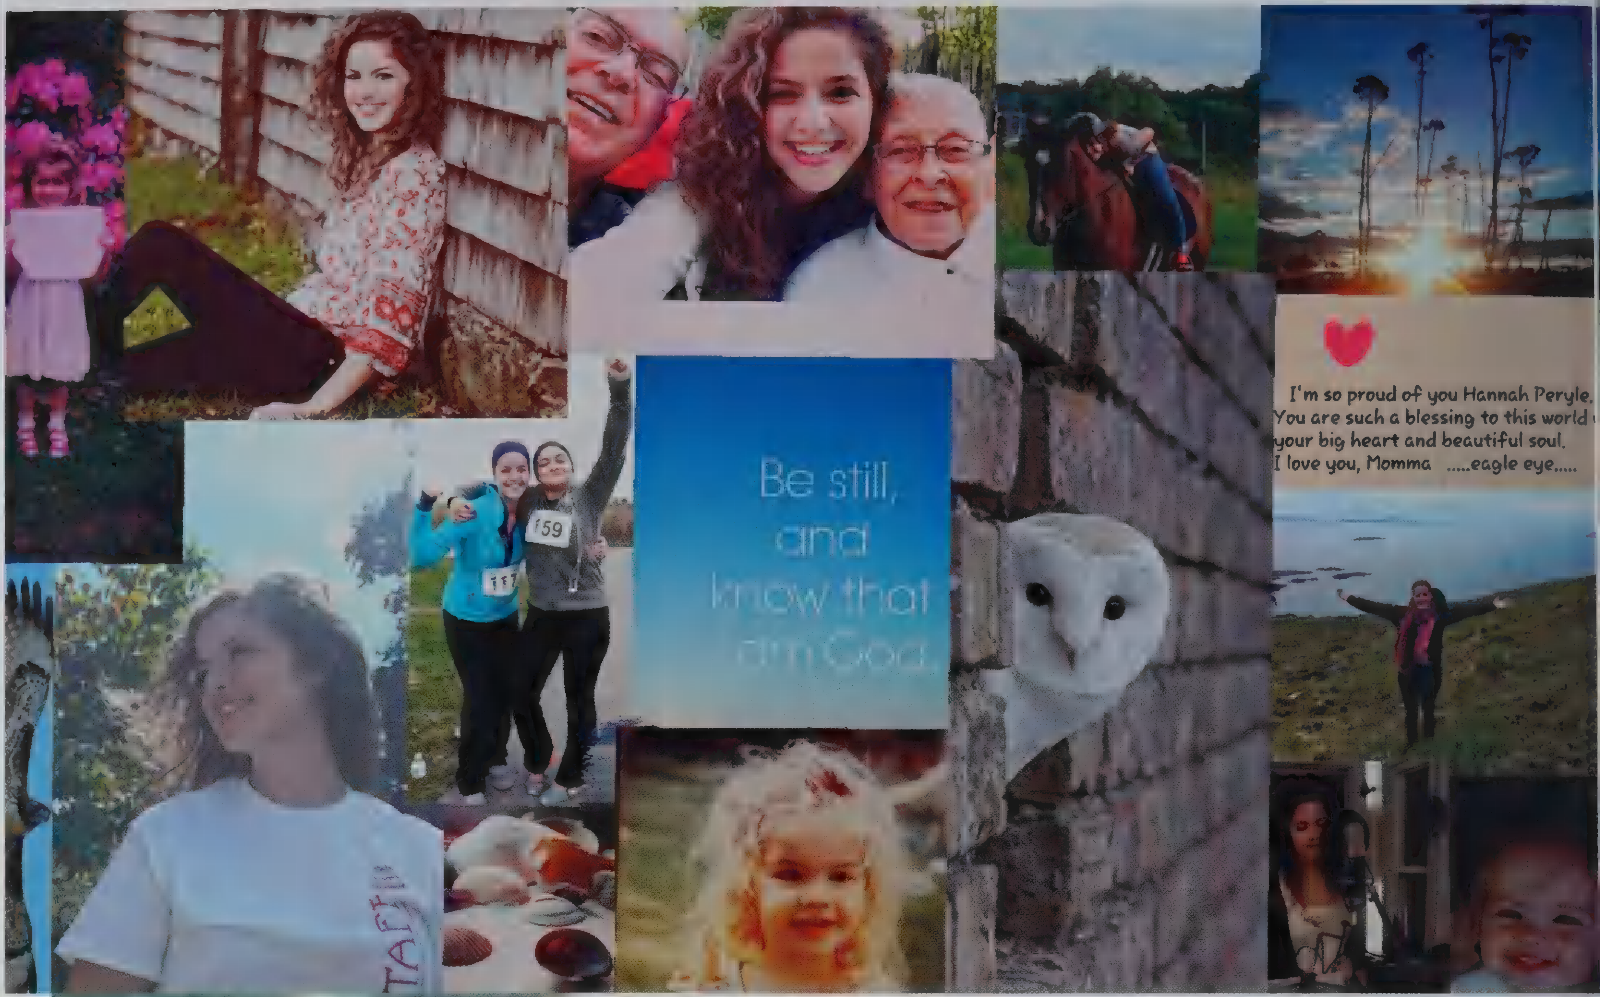
We love you.
Congratulations on your college graduation.
Congratulations 2015!



Be still, and know that I am God.

I'm so proud of you Hannah Peryle.
You are such a blessing to this world
your big heart and beautiful soul.
I love you, Momma .....eagle eye.....

Amy,

Wow! What an adventure it has been watching and being a part of your college journey. Band, choir, musical productions, and writing for and becoming Editor in Chief of the Veritas!

You have grown into a wonderful, confident, independent woman, yet you still have that great sense of humor and fun.

No parents could be prouder. We love you so very much and know God will be at your side always.

-Mom and Dad

Dougie,

We thought high school was hard, college a little harder, but now you are about to start your life, and that's the hardest part. But you can make it; you made it this far. Just remember, "an investment in knowledge always pays the best interest "-Benjamin Franklin Congratulations on graduating, you will go far! Love you big brother

- Love, Kirsten

Be strong and courageous. Do not be terrified; do not be discouraged, for the Lord your God will be with you wherever you go. -Joshua 1:9

Congratulations Dougie! We are so proud of you for everything that you have accomplished during your four years at ENC. You have personally overcome so many obstacles when you could have just given up. There are many others that would have; but you are not afraid to fail and that drives you to succeed. As you continue on your life's path remember it not the destination but the journey.

Today is not the end of your education, but the beginning. The future belongs to you: have good character, and always be true to yourself. We love you and are always here for you.

-Love, Mom and Dad

"Not to be cheered by praise, not to be grieve by blame, but to know thoroughly one's own virtues or powers are the characteristics of an excellent man"
- Satchel Paige, MLB Pitcher

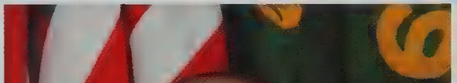
Congratulations, Greg!

We are so proud of you and the work you have put into earning your degree.

You have a bright and successful future in front of you.

Reach for it all!

With Much Love From Your Family



You should be very proud of all you've accomplished which has brought you to this most gratifying day!! We are very proud of you and the man you have become.
May God continue to bless you and your abilities as you start a new chapter in your life.

Love, Mom & Dad

Letters from the Nauti Staff

Throughout my time at Eastern Nazarene College I have learned a lot and in my opinion the most important things are not the ones that I learned in the classrooms. Do not get me wrong, classes are important and we all will learn valuable, indispensable pieces of knowledge while in a classroom. But I still stand by that the most important lessons do not happen there, especially while at college. through being on our own, away from our families and away from most of the friends we've made over time, we learn things about ourselves that help us grow and become the people we were always meant to be. We do things that we could not have imagined doing even a few months ago and end up in situations that would blow our pre-college selves away. In the four short years of being at college you will find out things about yourself that will be both positive and negative. In all of this it is important to embrace both of good and bad, accepting that you have flaws and will fail at some point is one of the most important lessons anyone can learn, While accepting the flaws in yourself, embracing everything you love about yourself is important too. In order to love others it is more important to love yourself because everyone has something about them that is loveable. There is not a person I know of that does not have something loveable about them. So before I ramble on any longer, this last year has been a challenge for me and I have discovered many things about myself that I could not have dreamed about. Things I love and things that I love less. But nonetheless I have learned to be myself and not change for anyone and love doing it. So before I run out of room, here is a quote that I have found to help through this pretty confusing time; "listen to your own voice, your own soul, too many people listen to the noise of the world instead of themselves and learn to love without condition, to talk without bad intention, give without any reason, and most of all, to care for people without any expectation."

Sondra Hazelton
Nautilus Editor and Chief

Whew! What a year this has been. The capstone of my four years at ENC.

My final year has included 28.5 credits, 3 jobs, 1 amazing internship, 2 councils along with numerous committees, a few flights, not enough road trips, one missions trip, one MOH request (s/o to my roomie), one half-marathon, and countless memories with some great people. I think that was a #humblebrag. Actually, I say all this because I want you to know how over-committed I was this year. Which is something I struggle with EVERY DAY. I say yes. Even when that little voice tells me no…I don't listen. Mostly because I don't like to disappoint.

My job as the Business Manager at the Nautilus was no exception. I really should not have taken this position. And in all honesty, this responsibility was probably at the bottom of my list of to-do's. And for that, I am sorry.

I could tell you about all of the things that I did do, but the reality is that you will only see the things that were not done well. And I would probably agree with you.

But let me dissect this over-committedness thing for a minute. I know that I am not alone in this. I know quite a few of you who deal with the same weakness. And let me be the one to tell you, you can SAY NO. It's okay. We are not called to be people-pleasers. We are called to do things to the absolute best of our ability. And spreading yourself thin over twenty projects is not your best.

And may I also remind you that we do not run this race alone. Run this race, and run it well.

"Therefore, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us also lay aside every weight, and sin which clings so closely, and let us run with endurance the race that is set before us, looking to Jesus, the founder and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is seated at the right hand of the throne of God."
Hebrews 12:1-2

Sydney Michael
Nautilus Business Manager

This has been a whirlwind of a year.
There were so many twists and turns that I never expected.

They were not kidding when they said your Junior year is the hardest one. I had some of my most difficult classes yet, another job to handle, and all of life's other little stresses. Being this year's layout editor certainly added to the stress of it all.
However, it wasn't all stress in the end, there were also joys, triumphs, and friendship. It's all super cheesy, I know.

When you are a part of the yearbook you are provided an incredibly unique opportunity. You are documenting an entire year. Talk about a lot of pressure. In the end, our book is no where near perfect, but neither was the year itself. It was full of ups and downs. Classes, projects, events, clubs, and everything in between. I'm absolutely proud of what we were able to accomplish.

I'll be looking forward to doing all of this again as the 2015-2016 Editor and Chief and all of the stress and excitement that will come during my last year at ENC. I hope to make next year's yearbook even better than this one, and make out story last for a lifetime.

Jessica Albee
Nautilus Layout Editor

COLOPHOM

As the editor in chief of this beautiful publication, it is my duty to thank everyone who allowed us to use their pictures and to our sponsors. I would like to also thank the businesses who put adds in to make our budget not so tight. I would like to especially thank all of the parents of seniors who sent in their student's adds to help make this publication so much more special to those students. I will forever be grateful for my amazing Nautilus staff, all of the photographers, Sydney Michael as my business manager and an extra special thank-you to my layout editor, Jessica Albee. She made this whole experience so much smoother, and so much more possible. So thank-you Jess! You rock and I am looking forward to seeing your yearbook come out next year!

Thank-you also to Conrad Schmidt and Nancy Dewees with Balfour studios for working with us and setting up our project in Studio Works and so much more. I would also like to add a thank-you to Keri Lewis who was the Nautilus advisor this year! You were a great support for the book and without that in place we would be lost, so thank-you again!

And one last, over arching than-you to those who helped make this past year possible. Good luck to everyone next year! It has been real!

Peace,
Sondra Hazelton
